

Vertebra slipping, i.e. spondylolisthesis surgery on two vertebral column intervals

The aim of surgical treatment is the stabilisation of the spine (with screws and metal rods).

In addition, the individual position of the spine is restored and the spinal canal is expanded at critical narrowings.