

Oxidative stress test from seminal fluid

MIOXSYS – oxidative stress test (from seminal fluid).

Higher level of oxidative stress refers to inflammatory processes in the genital tract. By assessing the test results, the doctor is able to determine necessary treatment and select the most appropriate fertilisation method.