

Uterine mucosa (endometrium) receptive test

Uterine mucosa (endometrium) receptive test helps to assess the receptiveness of the endometrium for embryo implantation.

Permits the identification of the so-called personal implantation window, thereby increasing the success rate of embryo transfer.