

Botulinum toxin therapy for of chronic migraine

The medication is injected with a thin needle into 32 areas of the head and neck.

The procedure lasts up to 15 minutes, after which, the patient is free to leave the treatment facility. There are no contraindications for any activities. It must be taken into account that small dots will be visible at injection sites, which will recede in 24 hours.