

Therapeutic plasma exchange

Under the conditions of day treatment in the Rheumatology Centre, a certain amount of blood plasma will be removed from the patient's blood circulation using a modern plasma separator.

The procedure's effect treats many diseases, since various disease-causing structures, such as autoantibodies, are removed from blood circulation with the plasma.