

Provocation test

It is possible to verify whether a suspected allergen causes issues or not using a provocation test.

To do so, the allergen will be given/administered under controlled conditions and constant supervision. We conduct allergological provocation tests in the event of the suspicion of a drug allergy, insecticide allergy, food allergy, as well as allergic rhinitis and asthma.